New Toyota RAV4 Plug-In Powers Up For 2019 Los Angeles Auto Show

10 October 2019

Toyota has teased what will become the most powerful RAV4 yet – the new RAV4 Plug-in.

Building on the dynamic attributes of the TNGA platform which underpins the existing RAV4 Hybrid, the Plug-in will add greater battery capacity to bring more EV range and more power for better acceleration to match the nimble handling capabilities of the chassis.

The new RAV4 Plug-in will make its debut at the 2019 Los Angeles Auto Show on 20 November. UK sales will start in 2020 and further information will be made available nearer the launch.

Notes to editors: For those unable to attend the show in person, the press conference will be livestreamed at <https://livestream.com/Toyota/2019LAAS>
